INFORMATION TO BUILDERS

MODIFICATION OF OPERATIONAL CONDITIONS (Aeroplane) AFTER 25 HOUR TEST PERIOD
( More commonly known as Removal of Restrictions)

The purpose of the following general information is meant to prepare you, when you make application to have the operating limitations removed from your Special Certificate of Airworthiness-Amateur Built

The mandate of MDRA is to issue a Special Certificate of Airworthiness once your aircraft passes its final inspection. The conditions of the operation of the aircraft as specified by the MDRA inspector remain in force, until removal or Modification of Special C of A by Transport Canada. MD-RA inspects your aircraft for compliance to Amateur Built construction methods and airworthiness standards. (507 exemption 549.01) - Not for operational compliance

 Builders need be aware that upon application for modification of conditions, Transport Canada will be expecting compliance with numerous operational requirements, not previously dealt with by MD-RA inspectors.

The following is a summary of items, Transport Canada will request, to establish you are in compliance prior to modifying your Special C of A.

The following items are listed with reference to the legislative requirements and the time interval in months between tests.

1. Supply a letter requesting the modification of your operational conditions One time
